

RESOLUTION No. 172/2012 of the FINANCIAL SUPERVISION AUTHORITY

of 19 June 2012

amending the resolution on the scope and detailed rules for determining capital requirements for particular types of risk

On the basis of Article 128 par. 6 pt. 1, 3-5 and 7 and of Article 141j of the Banking Law Act of 29 August 1997 (Journal of Laws of 2002 No. 72 item 665 as amended¹⁾), the following is adopted:

§ 1. In resolution No. 76/2010 of the Financial Supervision Authority of 10 March 2010 on the scope and detailed rules for determining capital requirements for particular types of risk (Official Journal of the PFSA No. 2 item 11 as amended²⁾) the following amendments are made:

1) in § 5, in par. 1, pt. 1 is now worded as follows:

“1) the sum of:

- a) market profit, as referred to in § 4 par. 1 - calculated cumulatively until the reporting date, reduced by known encumbrances, including dividends, within the scope in which it was not included in own funds or distributed in another way,
- b) a loss (with a negative sign) on all operations included in the banking portfolio, calculated cumulatively until the reporting date, except for losses on changes in exchange rates and prices of goods, within the scope in which it was not included in own funds or covered in another way,
- c) liabilities from subordinated loans obtained which meet the conditions stipulated in par. 2,

1) a risk weight of 100% if the earmarked reserve or write-down from lost value is of an amount below 20 per cent of the gross exposure value;

2) 75% if the earmarked reserve or write-down from lost value is of an amount not less than 20 per cent of the gross exposure value.”,

b) after § 72, § 72a is added, worded as follows:

“§ 72a. In the case of exposures secured by residential property, where the amount of principal or interest installments is dependent on changes in exchange rates or foreign currencies other than the currencies of the revenue attained by the debtor, which are overdue by more than 90 days, the exposure in its net value (reduced by the earmarked reserve or write-downs from lost value) is assigned a risk weight of 100%.”;

6) in Appendix No. 5, after § 261, a title is added, worded as follows:

„Title IV. Policy on amending the internal ratings method

§ 262. 1. The management board of a bank approves and implements the policy on amending the internal ratings method as referred to in § 8 par. 2, pt. 1 letter o of the resolution.

2. The policy on amending the internal ratings method sets out rules and procedures for classifying amendments and a procedure for how to deal with planned amendments. In particular, it sets out criteria for classifying amendments, and internal processes and obligations concerning implementation and documentation, and ensures that a register of amendments of the internal ratings method is kept.

3. The policy on amending the internal ratings method must take account of the following categories of amendment, determined using the relevant guidelines of the European Banking Authority of 6 January 2012 No. GL 45, Guidelines on Advanced Measurement Approach (AMA) - Extensions and Changes, on the basis of which the bank classifies planned amendments as:

- 1) expansions;
- 2) substantial changes;
- 3) significant changes;
- 4) insignificant changes;

4: The policy on amending the internal ratings method ensures that planned amendments classified as “expansions” or “substantial changes” are covered by independent internal reviews.

5. The policy on amending the internal ratings method and its application are covered by independent internal reviews.

6. The bank applies its policy on amending the internal ratings method to changes being made within the scope of internal rules of management and solutions approved within the area of the internal ratings method.

7. The register on amendments of the internal ratings method, as referred to in par. 2, should contain at least the date an amendment is implemented, a description of the change, the category of change, and a reference to the documentation concerning the change.

§ 263. 1. The classification of planned amendments is assessed taking account of changes made previously if it is held that these will have an effect at the same time, and also taking account of other planned amendments.

2. In the case where there is a discrepancy between the classification of a change based on its factual quantitative effect on the amount of the capital requirement and the classification of the same change based on quality criteria, the bank must assign the change to the category which is of greater importance.

3. Irrespective of the criteria established for classifying possible changes in the policy on amending the internal ratings method of a bank, the Financial Supervision Authority, after obtaining the consent of the bank for employing an internal ratings method, conducts an evaluation of the justification and classification of each change presented by the bank under the procedure set out in § 265-267.

§ 264. A bank which has obtained consent to apply an internal ratings method informs the Financial Supervision Authority of any modifications of its policy on amending its internal ratings method.

§ 265. 1. In order for a bank which has obtained consent to apply an internal ratings method to make changes classified as “expansions” or “substantial changes”, it must obtain the consent of the Financial Supervision Authority. To its application for consent, the bank must attach information making it possible to assess the compliance of the amendments with the requirements of the resolution, covering at least:

- 1) a description of the changes;
- 2) the conditions, purposes and anticipated effects on the capital requirement;
- 3) the report from the independent internal review of the planned change.

2. The consent as referred to in par. 1 may impose the performance of additional actions (in particular, the parallel application of the existing and amended version of the internal ratings method).

§ 266. 1. A bank which has obtained consent to apply an internal ratings method informs the Financial Supervision Authority of any changes planned in the “substantial changes” category, and provides documents containing a description of the change, its conditions, purposes, and anticipated effect on the capital requirement.

2. The Financial Supervision Authority informs the bank about all reservations it has regarding the changes referred to in par. 1. The Financial Supervision Authority may in particular indicate necessary or recommended actions concerning improvements to new or amended elements, or recommend other actions (e.g. the parallel application of the existing and amended versions of the internal ratings method).

3. In the case where the Financial Supervision Authority makes reservations as referred to in par. 2, the bank informs the Authority about the implementation of the actions referred to in par. 2.

§ 267. A bank which has obtained consent to apply an internal ratings method informs the Financial Supervision Authority once per year about changes introduced in the “insignificant changes” category.”;

7) in Appendix No. 12:

- a) § 2 is now worded as follows:

“§ 2. The exposure of a bank in relation to an entity is calculated in accordance with the rules set out in Article 71 of the Banking Law Act and in the resolution on the limit of exposure concentration,”

- b) § 5 is now worded as follows:

“§ 5. The capital requirement from exceeding the limit of exposure concentration in relation to a given entity is calculated:

- 1) in accordance with § 6 - if all conditions specified in § 6 pt. 19 of the resolution on the limit of exposure concentration are met;
- 2) in accordance with § 7 - if any of conditions specified in § 6 pt. 19 of the resolution of the Financial Supervision Authority on the limit of exposure concentration is not met;

8) in Appendix No. 14, after § 35, § 35a-35f are added, worded as follows:

“§ 35a. 1. The management board of a bank implements the policy on amending the advanced method of measuring operational risk as referred to in § 8 par. 5, pt. 1 letter k of the resolution.

2. The policy on amending the advanced method of measuring operational risk sets out rules and procedures for classifying amendments and a procedure for how to deal with planned amendments. In particular, it sets out criteria for classifying amendments, and internal processes and obligations concerning implementation and documentation, and ensures that a register of amendments of the advanced method of measuring operational risk is kept.

3. The policy on amending the advanced method of measuring operational risk must take account of the following categories of amendment, determined using the relevant guidelines of the European Banking Authority of 6 January 2012 No. GL 45, Guidelines on Advanced Measurement Approach (AMA) - Extensions and Changes, on the basis of which the bank classifies planned amendments as:

- 1) expansions;
- 2) substantial changes;
- 3) significant changes;
- 4) insignificant changes;

4: The policy on amending the advanced method of measuring operational risk ensures that planned amendments classified as “expansions” or “substantial changes” are covered by independent internal reviews.

5. The policy on amending the advanced method of measuring operational risk and its application are covered by independent internal reviews.

6. The bank applies its policy on amending the advanced method of measuring operational risk to changes being made within the scope of internal rules of management and solutions approved within the area of the advanced method of measuring operational risk.

7. The register on amendments of the advanced method of measuring operational risk, as referred to in par. 2, should contain at least the date an amendment is implemented, a description of the change, the category of change, and a reference to the documentation concerning the change.

§ 35b. 1. The classification of planned amendments is assessed taking account of changes made previously if it is held that these will have an effect at the same time, and also taking account of other planned amendments.

2. In the case where there is a discrepancy between the classification of a change based on its factual quantitative effect on the amount of the capital requirement and the classification of the same change based on quality criteria, the bank must assign the change to the category which is of greater importance.

3. Irrespective of the criteria established for classifying possible changes in the policy on amending the advanced method of measuring operational risk of a bank, the Financial Supervision Authority, after obtaining the consent of the bank for employing an advanced method of measuring operational risk, conducts an evaluation of the justification and classification of each change presented by the bank under the procedure set out in § 35d-35f.

§ 35c. A bank which has obtained consent to apply an advanced method of measuring operational risk informs the Financial Supervision Authority of any modifications of its policy on amending its advanced method of measuring operational risk.

§ 35d. 1. In order for a bank which has obtained consent to apply an advanced method of measuring operational risk to make changes classified as “expansions” or “substantial changes”, it must obtain the consent of the Financial Supervision Authority. To its application for consent, the bank must attach information making it possible to assess the compliance of the amendments with the requirements of the resolution, covering at least:

- 1) a description of the changes;
- 2) the conditions, purposes and anticipated effects on the capital requirement;
- 3) the report from the independent internal review of the planned change.

2. The consent as referred to in par. 1 may impose the performance of additional actions (in particular, the parallel application of the existing and amended versions of the advanced method of measuring operational risk).

§ 35e. 1. A bank which has obtained consent to apply an advanced method of measuring operational risk informs the Financial Supervision Authority of any changes planned in the “substantial changes” category, and provides documents containing a description of the change, its conditions, purposes, and anticipated effect on the capital requirement.

2. The Financial Supervision Authority informs the bank about all reservations it has regarding the changes referred to in par. 1. The Financial Supervision Authority may in particular indicate necessary or recommended actions concerning improvements to new or amended elements, or recommend other actions (e.g. the parallel application of the existing and amended versions of the advanced method of measuring operational risk).

3. In the case where the Financial Supervision Authority makes reservations as referred to in par. 2, the bank informs the Authority about the implementation of the actions referred to in par. 2.

§ 35f. A bank which has obtained consent to apply an advanced method of measuring operational risk informs the Financial Supervision Authority once per year about changes introduced in the “insignificant changes” category.”;

9) in Appendix No. 19:

a) in § 3, in pt. 11, letter e is now worded as follows:

“e) of the process of approving changes in the value at risk model,”,

b) after § 3, § 3a-3f is added, worded as follows:

“§ 3a. 1. The management board of a bank approves and implements the policy on amending the value at risk method as referred to in § 8 par. 4 pt. 1 letter k of the resolution.

2. The policy on amending the value at risk method sets out rules and procedures for classifying amendments and a procedure for how to deal with planned amendments. In particular, it sets out criteria for classifying amendments, and internal processes and obligations concerning implementation and documentation, and ensures that a register of amendments of the value at risk method is kept.

3. The policy on amending the value at risk method must take account of the following categories of amendment, determined using the relevant guidelines of the European Banking Authority of 6 January 2012 No. GL 45, Guidelines on Advanced Measurement Approach (AMA) - Extensions and Changes, on the basis of which the bank classifies planned amendments as:

- 1) expansions;
- 2) substantial changes;
- 3) significant changes;
- 4) insignificant changes;

4: The policy on amending the value at risk method ensures that planned amendments classified as “expansions” or “substantial changes” are covered by independent internal reviews.

5. The policy on amending the value at risk method and its application are covered by independent internal reviews.

6. The bank applies its policy on amending the value at risk method to changes being made within the scope of internal rules of management and solutions approved within the area of the value at risk method.

7. The register on amendments of the value at risk method, as referred to in par. 2, should contain at least the date an amendment is implemented, a description of the change, the category of change, and a reference to the documentation concerning the change.

§ 3b. 1. The classification of planned amendments is assessed taking account of changes made previously if it is held that these will have an effect at the same time, and also taking account of other planned amendments.

2. In the case where there is a discrepancy between the classification of a change based on its factual quantitative effect on the amount of the capital requirement and the classification of the same change based on quality criteria, the bank must assign the change to the category which is of greater importance.

3. Irrespective of the criteria established for classifying possible changes in the policy on amending the value at risk method of a bank, the Financial Supervision Authority, after obtaining the consent of the bank for employing a value at risk method, conducts an evaluation of the justification and classification of each change presented by the bank under the procedure set out in § 3d-3f.

§ 3c. A bank which has obtained consent to apply a value at risk method informs the Financial Supervision Authority of any modifications of its policy on amending its value at risk method.

§ 3d. 1. In order for a bank which has obtained consent to apply a value at risk method to make changes classified as “expansions” or “substantial changes”, it must obtain the consent of the Financial Supervision Authority. To its application for consent, the bank must attach information making it possible to assess the compliance of the amendments with the requirements of the resolution, covering at least:

- 1) a description of the changes;
- 2) the conditions, purposes and anticipated effects on the capital requirement;
- 3) the report from the independent internal review of the planned change.

2. The consent as referred to in par. 1 may impose the performance of additional actions (in particular, the parallel application of the existing and amended version of the value at risk method).

§ 3e. 1. A bank which has obtained consent to apply a value at risk method informs the Financial Supervision Authority of any changes planned in the “substantial changes” category, and provides documents containing a description of the change, its conditions, purposes, and anticipated effect on the capital requirement.

2. The Financial Supervision Authority informs the bank about all reservations it has regarding the changes referred to in par. 1. The Financial Supervision Authority may in particular indicate necessary or recommended actions concerning improvements to new or amended elements, or recommend other actions (e.g. the parallel application of the existing and amended versions of the value at risk method).

3. In the case where the Financial Supervision Authority makes reservations as referred to in par. 2, the bank informs the Authority about the implementation of the actions referred to in par. 2.

§ 3f. A bank which has obtained consent to apply a value at risk method informs the Financial Supervision Authority once per year about changes introduced in the “insignificant changes” category.”,

c) in § 5, pt. 1 is now worded as follows:

“1) the unilateral level of significance equals 0.01;”.

§ 2. This resolution enters into force on 30 June 2012.
